

Re: Mental Health- Child Screening

I am opposed to screening of children or anyone for that matter for emotional or mental illness.

To me this screening is an attempt to force people into harmless labels. Furthermore to try to treat these issues with drugs - is harmful. Evidence says drugs are not healthy for children or anyone for that matter. They have side effects and these bad side effects outweigh any helpfulness.

Children need love and a good quality education. They need to be helped with kindness and care - not put on drugs and turned into drug users.

Thanks for consideration
