

Our public system is one of the best in the world. As a registered nurse of almost 40 years I commend our current standard of health care. Standards are the important criteria to measure a system. Not codes or costings. Our standards are high. We expect and deliver high quality health care.

Clinicians are the best possible people to consult regarding innovations and the principals of lean thinking in health care. These processes are inbuilt in our public health system. The ongoing Transforming Health initiatives are a positive example of how our public health system is adapting to the changes of the 21st century.

At all times keep high quality patient care as your number one objective.

The Australian public will not accept anything less.

Keep our public health system for all people.
