

My name is Pat Jarvis. I was a NRL player for 16 years here in NSW. I am a proud Sydney-sider and had the honor to represent our State in playing against Queensland in the State of Origin matches. I also wore the Green and Gold for Australia. I am a Dad of three children.

I wanted to voice my complete disgust at the idea of having our babies tested for signs for mental illness and the tests continued until the age of three. In my mind this is crazy and another avenue for the drug companies to sell their array of mind altering drugs.

I am a proud Dad of my very successful three children. All babies are young children have behavioral moments these cannot be then taken to be signs of mental illness.

We don't need to be a rocket scientists to know where all this screen is going to end...That place is medication. Drugs and serious drugs with very serious side effects. We will be destroying the minds of our next generation.

Please put a stop to this now.

Pat Jarvis.
