Dear Productivity Commission,

I am writing to you about the Inquiry into Mental Health.

I have just been informed on the proposed plan and find it quite difficult to see how they indicate that an infant should be diagnosed with a mental illness, if for example they display what I see as very understandable and natural behaviours such as 'crawling about' or 'losing a toy'. I do not see how these behaviours illicit the psychiatric drugging of infants ~~to~~ aged 0-3.

I am extremely worried and concerned about the effects this will have on our childrens lives, health & well being. I am strongly against this plan.

Thank you for listening.

Your time is appreciated.

Best Regards,
Jasmine Middleton
