

Greetings,

I understand you are currently investigating the aged housing situation. I am sure that this is a complex situation but I very strongly suggest to you the following.

If our wonderful nation can, for example:

1. Find the money to support schools in Indonesia (or wherever) and
2. Find the cash for the desirable but not necessary NBN then ...

It is a bloody disgrace that we have OAP in hospital beds because they do not have accommodation and / or pensioners who cannot afford to pay for heating because of electricity prices. I can only suggest that those who govern us have completely lost the plot and their ideas on priorities are shameful.

Whether schools in Indonesia etc. may well be good ideas the function of governments of all shades and at all levels should be to look after its own citizens as priorities 1, 2 & 3!

Sincerely,

Leslie Falla
