

It is a backward step if the government agrees with the productivity Commission report that under three year old children only have "childcare" and that over three year old children have "education".

It goes against all the brain development research that has been conducted in the past decade.

Early Childhood Teachers are needed across the 0-5 year age range.

Katerina Athanassiou

