

I'm not sure if your interested in the views of average share holders, of which i am. I have generally small holdings in a number of public listed companies. I'm very much in support of new laws giving share holders more say, i'd like to see the share holders vote as binding. I understand that's unlikely as the pressure groups are too strong. I'd still like to see the two strikes and your out policy implemented.

Regards,

Geoff