

Submission regarding market mechanisms for recovering water in the Murray Darling Basin

Can a mechanism be established such that a set percentage (say 10% or 20%) of the water diversion entitlement sold in all private trades revert back to the Government to be used as an environmental flow. I expect the total amount received by the seller would not be significantly reduced as the value per mega-litre received by the seller would be higher, reflecting supply and demand.