Dear sir.

RE : RETAILING -INTERNET UNFAIR PURCHASES - NO GST INCLUSIVE

I wish to make a written submission into the inquiry by the overseas retail purchases which are exempt from GST charges which is clearly unfair and puts Australian business and working class at an disadvantage.

The government excuse that it would be too hard to administer a GST charge on overseas purchases is not good enough reason to not levee the GST charge.

The government if it really wanted to could have the companies put a GST charge on their web sites and this could be be connected to the ATO direct so that the GST could be paid immediately on purchase.

The Government should be looking at ways to have the GST placed on purchases with immediate pavment to the ATO Reserve Bank account

There is another agenda for the government for overseas purchases and is quite happy to sell out local business and Australia's working classes and this is to have Australians use the internet for purchases as centre of the Australian economy and this is why the Government is placing a computer for every student in every school and also is why the Government is rolling out "Fast Broadband "

By doing this it is placing all their eggs in the one basket and thus risking massive unemployment and a slave economy where Australian standard of living will go down.

The government has been active getting rid of alternative advertising avenues for business such as canvassing at doors, telemarketing and is now attempting to get rid of Direct Post by unconstitutional laws in Victoria sections 45M and 45L of the Environment Protection Act. 1975.

The Federal Government is a government which has no loyalty to Australians but wants to get to its' ultimate objective of being involved in the New World Order which it thinks is international Communism but will soon find out it is international world slavery where international bankers will have total control of world banks and world economies

The Government does not want the free market to be the instrument for the internet so make its' place in Australia's economy and this is why it is getting rid of alternative advertising modes such as Direct post, Telemarketing and Canvassing at doors manipulating Australian biases against these modes of advertising and sales which the media has placed the bias and dislikes into the minds of Australians for their own benefit.

Rupert Murdoch was the instigator of the roll out of fast broadband and the then Prime Minister Rudd rushed the program through stating that 500 thousand jobs would be created through internet business but in the retail sector 1 million jobs will be lost as with internet purchases the governments around Australia have brought in big warehouse merchants where consumers will purchase straight to warehouses and by pass the middle man one of the biggest employers in Australia the retail sector which will disappear if the government carries on the road it is now taking.

The pick up of jobs will be less with the internet economy than is the case of the retail sector remaining.

The demise of the retail sector will be a major disaster as the flow on effect to the service industries will cause further business failure and greater employment where a slave economy will emerge and Australian working classes will have to compete for jobs where wages will be less and safety and conditions will deteriorate.

The government must come up with guarantees that the internet economy will pick up the jobs which the present economy provides so that the future for Australians for improved quality of life will continue.

OUT 'N' ABOUT

The broad based economy is the best economy and a narrow based economy is not in the public interest for Australians and Government be warned that history awaits you and the governments in Australia get it wrong and history will record the disaster which awaits.

Yours sincerely,

RUSSELL MORSE. (DIRECTOR)
