POLICE SERVICES (CHAPTER 6)

- This chapter reports on the operations of the police agencies of each State and Territory government, including the ACT community policing function performed by the Australian Federal Police.
- Recurrent expenditure on community policing services across Australia was approximately $7.85 billion (or $363 per person) in 2008-09 (p. 6.10). Police agencies employed 64 315 staff in 2008-09 (p. 6.6).
- Information is included on recorded crime, perceptions of safety and crime, and outcomes of investigations. For example, data are reported on recorded victims of personal crime (pp. 6.31–34), public perceptions of safety and public perceptions of particular personal crimes as a problem (pp. 6.21–26), as well as the proportion of particular personal crimes that were finalised within 30 days of the offence being known to police (pp. 6.41–44).

Objectives of police services

- to allow people to undertake their lawful pursuits confidently and safely
- to bring justice to those people responsible for committing an offence
- to promote safer behaviour on roads
- to support the judicial process to achieve efficient and effective court case management and judicial processing, providing safe custody for alleged offenders, and ensuring fair and equitable treatment of both victims and alleged offenders.
