CHILDREN'S SERVICES (CHAPTER 3)

- The focus of this chapter is on government funded and/or provided child care and preschool services for children aged 12 years or younger.
- The Australian Government supported 668 124 child care places in 2007 (p. 3.8). In 2007-08, State and Territory governments supported approximately 62 652 child care places for children aged 12 years or younger and at least 167 686 preschool places (pp. 3.8-3.9).
- In 2008, approximately 760 825 children aged 12 years or younger attended Australian Government approved child care services. In 2007-08, a further 109 037 children attended State and Territory funded and/or provided child care services and 203 038 children attended State and Territory funded and/or provided preschool services (p. 3.9).
- Total Australian, State and Territory government expenditure on children's services was approximately $3.3 billion in 2007-08 (p. 3.8).

Objectives of children's services

- Children's services aim to:
  - meet the care, education and development needs of children in a safe and nurturing environment
  - provide support for families in caring for their children
  - provide these services in an equitable and efficient manner (p. 3.11).

Developments in reporting since the 2008 Report

- The major improvements to reporting on children's services this year include:
  - measure and data for 'Indigenous preschool attendance' are reported for the first time (p. 3.15)
  - new indicator, measure and data are reported for 'Australian Government expenditure per child attending approved children's services' (p. 3.46).
- Additional improvements to the 2009 Report include a change in the calculation of child care service costs from 'average child care fees' to 'median child care fees' (p. 3.26), and the inclusion of a matrix showing basic information on child care and preschool education programs (such as agency responsibility, program names and starting ages) across State and Territory governments (table 3A.1).
